

---

Subject: Re: Non-Player Characters

Posted by artisticrainey on Wed, 25 Jul 2012 22:55:21 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

I'm not sure what Jack could bring to the agents, other than being a pair of watchful eyes, but then the same could be said of Jeremiah Tuttle, couldn't it?

As for the girl giving the secret away, it can be dismissed as she was lying, trying to make her father look better than he is (I don't think her parents would be so lax as to let her find out the connection between the Tracys and IR. She might, however, find out that her father is an agent.)

I have an idea for use in a girlfriend for Gordon: a real-life mermaid!

Clicky!

Hopefully this gives you the link to the double amputee who had a functioning mermaid tail made for her by the special effects people who worked on LotR. If not, I'll see if I can find the right link.

But it could be cool for Gordon to have a girlfriend like this, perhaps even someone who was in the hydrofoil crash with him.

ETA: Updated to a new link that's actually active. Old one was gone.

Posted by Tikatu

---